Building the Talent Pipeline

EDUCATION & TRAINING

We partner with the IU13, Penn Medicine Lancaster General Health, Millersville University, and others to provide continuing education training for primary care providers, school administrators, and mental health professionals.

SCHOLARSHIPS

In 2022, we now support undergraduate students pursuing mental health careers, such as social work, psychology, education, and related fields.

$38,290 in awards

$17,000 in 10 new scholarships for nursing students

$21,500 in 7 scholarships for students continuing in their degree program

CLINICAL SUPERVISION COLLABORATIVE

- $120,800 in grants to 10 mental health agencies and practices
- We are supporting 44 Fellows for clinical supervision hours. Since 2020, 10 graduates have earned their clinical license to become therapists and counselors serving youth in Lancaster County.
  - This program addresses the inadequate supply of child and adolescent mental health professionals in Lancaster County. It equips mental health professionals to take on supervisory roles and provides a post-master’s clinical fellowship program for license-eligible providers to receive supervision required for licensing.
  - With a matching grant from The Steinman Foundation, this is funded through 2022.

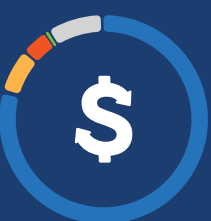

“When you graduate, you think, ‘I’m going to go out into the world and do all these things’ and then there’s a financial burden. Being in the supervision collaborative has been a great learning process and relief to not worry about the cost. Instead, I can just focus on learning everything I can in the field.”

BRANDEE JASON,
Clinical Supervision Collaborative Fellow
